Council Adopts Time Change for Marion; Grants Ten-Year Electric Rate Contract

CLOCKS HERE TO BE TURNED BACK SUNDAY

Vote Unanimous; New Electric Contract Approved by 7-2 Vote.

City Council voted to turn back city clocks one hour next Sunday night at midnight by unanimous action at its regular meeting last night.

It also passed, by a split vote, the 10-year rate contract proposed by the Marion-Reserve Power Co. governing electricity rates in Marion for the next decade.

Council also adopted a resolution approving Marion's participation in a statewide pooling of emergency equipment to meet any large-scale disasters that might call for state civilian defense action. Marion's fire-fighting equipment is to be loaned or temporarily, or equipment of other cities is to be brought in as needed if any big emergency develops.

Councilmen Change Votes.

The time change ordinance is the same one that council voted down at its last meeting a week ago. Three of the four councilmen who voted against it then—Councilmen Robinson, Barnhard and Simmons—said they still don't like the change but that the public apparently wants it and "we decided to give them what they want." Councilman Pearl Sells, the only other one to vote against the change a week ago, explained at that time he opposed it only because he wanted a little more time to sound out public opinion.

The official time in Marion will be one hour slower than at present beginning next Sunday midnight, and remain that way until the first Sunday in April next year. Marion's new time may be properly identified either as Eastern Standard or Central War time. Virtually the entire city is expected to switch over, excepting for military installations and railroads, which are geared to federal war time.

Favors Change.

Millard Hunt spoke briefly in favor of the change in time, and several letters from individuals were read, asking for the change. The only voice against it was that of E. J. Schweinfurth of the Industrial Union council who urged that the clocks be left unchanged to avoid confusion but that schools and businesses readjust their working schedules to their own convenience.

A large group of Ohio cities already have voted to move the clock backs, some of them having made the change last week-end.

When the new electric rate ordinance came up for final action, Councilmen Barnhard and Simmons voted no; all other councilmen voted in favor of it. The two voting no said they disliked the length of the contract, and thought it should be around five years. Councilman Barnhard, before the final vote was taken, asked why the "third member of the franchise and ordinance committee" didn't know about the ordinance until a short time before it was brought before council for action.

He referred to Councilman Simmons, a member of that committee. Councilman Earle Johnson, chairman of that committee, said that both the franchise and ordinance and the street and lighting committee worked on the negotiations, and that the customary plan of having just the chairman handle the negotiations was followed in this case. Thus, Johnson and W. G. Slack, chairman of the street and lighting committee, handled the negotiations. Mr. Slack also is a member of the franchise and ordinance committee.

Details of Rate.

The new electric rate, which will become effective as soon as the contract is approved by the commission, starts at 4½ cents a kilowatt hour for the first 40 kilowatts used each month as compared with the present five-cent rate and means a savings of $1,200 a month for all domestic

Expect County To Adopt New Official Time

Widespread acceptance of Marion city's new official time throughout rural Marion county was indicated in a checkup this morning, although several official groups such as district school boards and town councils must act before some of the changes become official.

At the courthouse, officials said the clock in the courthouse tower will be turned back Sunday midnight. Inside the building, no change will be necessary because clocks in the offices have been on slow time throughout the summer because slow time had been set by the legislature as official time for Ohio governmental business.

Most persons contacted this morning expressed their pleasure over the change, which will turn the clocks back an hour next Sunday night at midnight. Only in a few quarters was there any objection, principally among workers at military installations and railroad employes who necessarily must operate in the future on two sets of time because railroads and war plants are geared to federal war time. The change also will present somewhat of a problem for bus company employes who are counting on having to talk two sets of times in answering phone calls about intercity bus schedules.

The city public schools and St. Mary Parochial schools welcomed the change because it will remove the necessity of changing school hours to keep children from having to go to school before daybreak.

In Rural Areas

D. T. Mills, superintendent of the county schools, said he could not predict what action local boards throughout the county might take, but said that at the outset of the school term some boards were inclined to remain on fast time until the days get shorter in late October or early November. The fast time schedule gives high school boys a "long daylight work period" on the farm after school which is of some advantage, he pointed out. However, he said, some boards may decide to change the time beginning Monday because of the number of rural residents working in Marion plants, and because of the advantage of adjusting rural time schedules to Marion business hours.

Some communities were understood to be all set to follow whatever course Marion decided. Green Camp, for example, previously voted to change when and if Marion changed, so that community automatically will adjust its clocks Sunday midnight.

GOAL NEAR IN 3RD WAR LOAN

Marion County Within $50,000 of Latest Self-Set Mark of $4,000,000.

With small, individual purchases carrying the ball for the bulk of yesterday's sales, Marion county's total in the Third War Loan campaign stood today at $3,951,237.75.

This left less than $50,000 for the campaign organization to reach before the end of the week to go over its latest self-set goal of $4,000,000.

Today's figure represents more than 139 per cent of the original quota of $2,829,000 — a figure that had drive leaders frankly concerned because it was the largest amount ever sought in a financial campaign in the county's history.

Of the $40,365.50 total turned in yesterday, $29,361.50 came from the sale of E bonds, which went to 1,951 persons. Sales of other series included $6,000 in Series C, $1,300 in Series G, $3,200 in Treasury 2 per cent bonds, $500 in Treasury 2½ per cent and $204 in Series F.

Still holding its margin of lead in the 26 counties making up Area 1, Marion county as of Saturday was credited with 134.8 per cent of its quota, a bulletin from the Cleveland headquarters today showed. Marion was one of six counties in the area over the top as of Saturday. Crawford county is in tenth place with 89.8 per cent of its quota raised, Morrow is in twenty-third with 56.6 per cent.

Point Values Raised Again on Butter, Processed Foods

(See Charts on Pages 2 and 3)

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28—Reflecting still-dwindling production, another sharp increase in the ration cost of butter—from the current 12 to 16 points beginning Sunday—was announced today by the office of price administration (OPA.)

The point values of most meat will remain unchanged, OPA said, except for some slight upward adjustments.

Processed food changes for October, announced last night, called largely for stiff increases in canned fruit values although there will be small reductions for some important vegetables.

OPA said farm (or country) butter would be raised also from six to 10 points, and announced:

(1)—Standard cuts of beef, veal and lamb remain unchanged, while several lamb and veal variety meats are reduced one point.

(2)—A total of eight standard pork cuts, including center chops and loin roasts, are increased one to two points.

(3)—Eighteen meat cuts, mainly variety types as brains and kidneys, are now point-free.

(4)—A number of cheeses, including cream cheese, cream cottage cheese, Swiss, bleu and camembert, are increased a point a pound.

The pork item increase, attributed directly to heavier government demands, will bring the ration cost of center cut chops up two points to 11, for example, tenderloin up one to 11 and loin-center roasts up two to 11. Spareribs go from two to four.

Among variety cuts removed from rationing are beef, veal and lamb-mutton brains and kidneys, and pork ears, tails, kidneys and snouts. Canned pigs feet and brains were also eliminated.

In the processed foods program, shortages of supply and military needs brought sharp advances for No. 2 size cans of red sour cherries (14 to 25), all other cherries except maraschino, (14 to 23), grapefruit (10 to 18); No. 2½ size apricots (27 to 36), figs (13 to 21) and prunes or plums (7 to 15). There is also a rise of 3 points a quart for grape juice.

No. 2 cans of asparagus are up 4 points, but green and wax beans are down 2 points, vacuum-packed whole kernel corn is down 4 and other corn (except on the cob) down 3.

Mushrooms, the four-ounce size, were another item given an increase, going from 3 to 5 points.

Reduced to a zero rating but not completely removed from the ration list are dried peas and lentils, which may be given values later.

THREE GERMAN CITIES BOMBED

Large Force Concentrates on Major Industrial Center of Hannover.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Sept. 28 — Great royal air force heavy bomber armadas struck three German cities last night, concentrating on the rubber center of Hanover in the second attack in force on that city within a week, amid indications that it is due for the same destructive punches which leveled Hamburg.

The three-pay night offensive also hit at the big German naval base of Emden, in a swift follow-up to the Flying Fortress slash yesterday when American bombers dropped a mixed load of high explosives, incendiaries and pamphlets.

Another RAF target was Brunswick.

Last night's attack was the eleventh heavy bombing delivered on Germany this month, and marked the 48th time Hannover—about 380 miles from Britain and 160 miles due west of Berlin—has been bombed since the start of the war.

The Hannover raid cost the RAF 38 bombers.

Returning crewmen reported tremendous flames eating through the city, which is a huge rail center and the site of numerous oil refineries and motor factories, in addition to Germany's largest rubber factory, the Continental Gummiewerke.

For Emden, important U-boat haven on the north coast, it was the second blasting within little more than 12 hours. The Fortresses had plowed through adverse weather to drop their loads, employing comparatively new methods devised to make potent the American daylight offensives as effective in bad weather as in good.

A very strong force of RAF bombers hit Hanover on the night of Sept. 22 in a highly concentrated attack of probably 2,000 (long) tons packed into 30 minutes.

4-Cent Hourly Raise Proposed for Rail Operating Employes

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28—The White House disclosed today that a railroad emergency board had recommended a wage increase of at least four cents an hour for 300,000 operating employes of the nation's rail carriers.

The board reported to President Roosevelt these workers were entitled to that much under the "Little Steel" formula and implied it would have recommended a higher figure if he had felt the government would approve.

The report was submitted on a 2 to 1 vote, the minority member dissenting sharply because he favored a more substantial increase, amounting to 7½ per cent.

The 4 cents an hour proposed by the majority amounts to 4½ per cent of the average hourly earnings, 89.9 cents, paid on January 1, 1941, which is the base date for the little steel formula. The five operating brotherhoods had asked an increase of 30 per cent or $3 a day, whichever might be higher. Unless set aside within 30 days by the economic stabilization director or rejected by the employes, the increase would be made effective as of April 1, 1943.

Employes Have Strong Case

"It is the opinion of the emergency board," said the report, "that the employes involved in this dispute have made out a strong case for a wage increase to correct gross inequities and to aid in the effective prosecution of the war.

"In view, however, of the order of the economic stablization director of June 22, 1943, and his memorandum opinion of June 30, 1943, in the non-operating case, this board is compelled to conclude that there being no substandards of living in the present dispute, the operating employes may be granted such increase only as may be justified under the little steel formula."

This referred to Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson's order and opinion setting aside another emergency board's report which recommended ana increase of 8 cents an hour for the 1,180,000 nonoperating railroad employes.

This puts two major railroad reports before the government. In the 8-cent case, Vinson proposed

REDS THREATEN 3 KEY CITIES IN NAZI DEFENSES

Soviet Advance Puts Germans in Jeopardy in White Russia.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Sept. 28—Three key cities of White Russia — Gomel, Mogilev and Vitebsk — were in danger from advancing Red army forces today, while further south other Soviet columns continued their unrelenting pressure against Kiev, Kremenchug, Dnepropetrovsk and Melitopol, springboard for a possible drive into the Crimea.

The last German Caucasian base of Temryuk was smashed yesterday, a Moscow war communique said, virtually sealing the fate of whatever axis forces were left in the northwestern Caucasus. They faced certain capture or flight across the Kerch strait to join the German garrisons in the Crimea. A Berlin broadcast said Temryuk was evacuated Sunday after military installations were dynamited.

Sensational Gain

Most sensational of the Soviet gains was the capture of an east bank suburb of Dnepropetrovsk, in a savage hand-to-hand struggle across the river from the big steel and power city on the Dnieper river bend.

Their backs to the broad Dnieper, the Nazis fought to the last. Remnants of their rearguards were hurled into the Dnieper as Red army troops overran the suburb of Nizhnedneprovsk and seized huge piles of abandoned war loot, the Russian communique said.

The Russians said they reclaimed 1,320 towns and villages —biggest one-day haul of the smashing summer offensive — in yesterday's action on the war's longest land front.

Nearly 7,000 Nazi troops were reported killed on all sectors of the front. Moscow said that German troops, reeling under the impact of the Soviet steamroller tactics, were surrendering by the hundreds.

Kiev Battle Develops

The battle for Kiev, the great central bastion high on the west bank of the Dnieper, was developing, and a Berlin broadcast said Soviet troops had crossed the river 30 miles to the north and were battling the Germans on the west bank.

On the Gomel-Vitebsk sector, Red army spearheads captured Terekhovka, 22 miles southeast of Gomel, southern junction of the Mogilevorsha-Vitebsk railway, and were advancing despite stiff resistance, Russian front dispatches indicated.

A German expert explained in a broadcast that the "German retreat is in preparation for a winter campaign."

The general opinion in London, however, was that the Germans will never again be able to launch a major attack in Russia.

Thursday Deadline for Obtaining New Drivers' Licenses

Thursday is the deadline for obtaining new drivers' licenses, C. W. Wallace, state registrar of motor vehicles, reminded Ohio motorists today, according to The Associated Press.

Meanwhile James E. Messenger, deputy registrar for motor vehicles, reported that approximately 7,200 drivers' and chauffeurs' licenses had been issued by his office since the sale began Sept. 8. Around 700 licenses were issued yesterday alone, he said, but there was little congestion.

Mr. Messenger said that there would be around 1,900 licenses issued between now and Thursday, since there were 9,100 licenses sold from his office last year.

The office is open from 8:30 till 5 every day, and until after the deadline, the staff is working through the noon hour. Office hours from 7 to 9 are also being observed in the evenings this week, to enable defense workers who can't get in during the day, to purchase [illegible].

SHOWDOWN DUE ON DAD DRAFT

Wheeler Carries Bill To Delay Father Call To Floor of Senate.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 — Congress reached the showdown on the father draft issue today and U. S. military heads opposing blanket deferment of family heads chose the occasion to warn that Germany and Japan are more powerful than ever.

Senator Wheeler, Democrat of Montana, carried to the floor of the senate his legislation to postpone the draft of fathers until January 1, amid signs of its certain defeat. He said the administration was out to defeat his bill even if it meant "breaking up the American home."

Sentiment swunk against the Wheeler bill after military men pleaded at hearings for completion of a war machine which will apparently require induction of almost a half million fathers to reach contemplated strength.

The magnitude of the task ahead was impressed upon industrial, labor and newspaper executives called by the war department to hear a frank report on what is happening and what may be expected. Maj. Gen. George V. Strong, army intelligence chief, said the Germany army and luftwaffe are stronger now than when Poland was attacked. He presented a similar report on Japan, rejecting the idea of an early axis collapse.

Another sobering comment on the impact of the war came from a tax expert on capitol hill. Chairman George, Democrat of Georgia, of the senate finance committee pictured a new dent in the public bankroll when the next revenue bill emerges in a few months. George said that if accepted congressional methods were followed in a search for an extra $10,000,000,000 or more a year, normal and surtax rates in the lowest income brackets would have to be boosted to 32 per cent; another ten per cent jump would be put onto the corporation taxes and excise levies on liquor and tobacco would have to be broadened to take in other commonly-used articles.

The treasury, which wants an additional $12,000,000,000 a year, may have something to say about this at the start of hearings next Monday.

Another subsidy battle shaped

TROOPS RACE 25 MILES INTO GERMAN LINES

Clark's Men Gain Up to Five Miles in Drive North Toward Naples.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 28 — A strong British mobile armored column has raced 25 miles through Field Marshal Gen. Albert Kesselring's defenses and captured the great air base city of Foggia with its 12 satellite airfields.

Official reports disclosed the vanguard of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth army troops entered the city at 3 p. m. yesterday, easily overcoming minor opposition.

At the same time Lieut. Gen. Mark. W. Clark's men of the Fifth army registered gains of from two to five miles to the north in the Salerno area in the face of stubborn German resistance.

The Fifth army captured the towns of Lioni and Castelnuovo on the eastern flank of this line, which was held by American troops.

The historic city of Melfi also was taken.

North Salerno British troops plunged their way forward two miles.

Some idea of the intense fighting encountered by the Fifth army was given by prisoners of the German 16th panzer division who said their division had been virtually put out of action, with its losses exceeding 50 per cent.

(Today's German communique said the "pressure" of the Anglo-Americans in southern Italy had been considerably increased with the landing of fresh forces." It added: "while all attacks were beaten back in the Salerno area our troops have disengaged themselves according to plan in the area of Foggia and have retreated to prepared mountain positions. Foggia was evacuated after destruction of all installations of war importance.")

Enemy Suffers Losses

On the Eighth Army front "considerable casualties" were inflicted upon the Germans in the drive on Foggia, headquarters announced, but there were indications German resistance was slight on the swift advance against Kesselring's rearguard forces which were left at the mercy of British columns.

From a strategic standpoint Foggia is perhaps the most important city captured in the Italian campaign to date.

It is a city of about 85,000 and possesses one of the best airdromes in all Italy and a dozen smaller satellite fields that will place powerful Allied air forces within closer striking distance of the Balkans as well as southern Germany and the great Ploesti oil fields of Rumania.

Foggia was the No. 1 objective of the Allied drive in southern Italy.

So swift was the Allied advance that the enemy was prevented from destroying the airfields.

"It is obvious that the Allied drive in the east has made perilous the German position in the Naples area," an Allied headquarters spokesman said.

Foggia, in addition to being an air base, is a road center with at least six main highways leading into it from all directions.

The Allied drive again made some headway east of Salerno toward the Adriatic where heavier opposition was met.

Germans Attempt To Offset Loss of Foggia's Airfields

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Sept. 28—With Foggia's elaborate string of air fields in allied hands, the Germans struck at once today in an effort to shield themselves from the grave strategic consequences of the loss of that vital base.

Almost at the moment, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's communique disclosed that Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery forces had overrun Foggia, the Germans announced two quick steps of their own:

1. They threw landing forces at the island of Corfu off the west coast of Greece.

2. They attacked and claimed to have regained the Yugoslav harbor city of Split, previously stormed and seized by Yugoslav guerrillas.

In these operations, Hitler was moving with all urgency against a menace suddenly and vastly increased against his Balkan front for the capture of Foggia by the British meant that the whole of northern Italy, the Danube valley and southern Germany itself now have been brought more adequately under the shadow of the allied air arm.

It meant also that grand-scale facilities for allied air action against the Balkans had now been obtained in an area only 150 miles across the Adriatic sea.

The Berlin announcement of the occupation of Corfu, directly across the Italian sea from the heel of the Italian boot, said the Germans took over the entire island troops who turned down an ultimatum to surrender.

"The Germans broke down resistance and brought in several thousands prisoners," said the broadcast.

In a separate announcement broadcast a short time before, Berlin said the Dalmatian port of Split, on the Adriatic coast across from [illegible]

Yanks Hack Road Through Indian Jungles To Burma

By PRESTON GROVER
AP War Correspondent

AN AMERICAN BASE ON THE INDIA-BURMA FRONTIER Sept 29 — (Delayed) — Despite hills and high water American Army engineers supervised by Indians and Chinese—have hacked a roadway through the jungle from India into Burma which, if God and the enemy are willing, an attack upon the Jap rear may be launched

Headquarters calls the ghastly one road, but engineers call it the "Tokyo road" because Lt Col Philip G Major of Tuskegee, Ala, "the stuff transported over it eventually will end up in Japan" — now 3,000 miles away

The road already has penetrated enemy territory and Chinese troops have ended the traffic jam which has been forcing supplies to be flown further as construction progresses

Its most immediate purpose is to support attacks of a campaign to [illegible] of the Japanese out of the northern end of Burma so that supplies can reach China by land as well as by air

Major 29-year-old commander of an engineers battalion going one of the toughest assignments of the war, conducted Associated Press Correspondent Thoburn Wiant and myself over part of the road in one of the toughest jeep rides imaginable

Pursuing a generally eastward direction, the road runs along the southern slope of the Himalayan range through some of India's thickest jungles.

Included among the engineering force are some troops who built airdromes in the Hudson bay country before coming to this fever-ridden jungle country

The trail goes through the heart of the head-hunting Naga tribal country, but that is only a minor problem, as most of the natives have proved friendly.

Near the halfway point on the road stands a camp sign reading "Illkyindova" That isn't Hindu—just a composite abbreviation for Illinois, Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio and Virginia troops who were on the job there

First Lady Opens Press Conference To Men Reporters

WASHINGTON, Sept 28—Back home from a 25,000-mile swing through the south Pacific, Mrs Franklin D Roosevelt broke precedent yesterday by opening her press conference to men reporters But the boys took a gallant "ladies first" attitude toward the proceedings, and only one of them participated in a multitude of questions asked about the trip.

Some 60 reporters crowded into the green room of the White House to hear the first lady describe her experiences and assert

"The deepest impression I've come home with is a feeling of enormous pride in the younger generation and enormous faith in their ability to do what they set out to do, at whatever cost"

Feminine reporters were quick to note that the President's wife had lost weight on the long tour She admitted she had lost "quite a little"

She explained the journey had a three-fold purpose first it was undertaken in response to invitations from New Zealand and Australia to visit those countries, following her journey to England Secondly, Norman Davis, chairman of the American Red Cross, asked her to look over Red Cross activities in the Pacific theater and report to him Thirdly, the President wanted her to visit as many hospitals and American troops as possible

One woman reporter asked who footed the bill for the trip Mrs Roosevelt replied that she paid her own way to the west coast and from there on had a single seat in a regular transport plane The air travel cost her nothing, but all other expenses down to tips, she said she met herself

Mrs Roosevelt said she would report here to several military agencies, already has submitted an informal report to Norman Davis, and would turn over to him a written one carrying 'very specific recommendations"

The first lady noted the Red Cross was doing a 'swell job' with what it had in the Pacific, but had a sizable transportation problem to deal with

The soldiers in the field, she reported, asked her chiefly what was happening at home, what conditions were at home, and whether they would have jobs when they returned home

Supreme Court Opens Fall Season Tomorrow

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, Sept 28—The Ohio supreme court, preparing to open its fall session tomorrow, has before it a suit to settle legality of the state post-war planning commission and a request for immediate hearing of the liquor department's effort to force Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson to pay a $1,000,000 liquor bill

Lieut Gov Paul Herbert late yesterday asked the court to order Ferguson to pay traveling expenses totaling $11 67 to Herbert and Rep A Lee Fatt, commission members. The suit resulted from friendly agreement to determine whether membership of legislators on the commission violates the constitutional prohibition against such service and makes the commission illegal as now constituted

The liquor suit was brought by Director Don A Fisher after Ferguson declined to pay a bill for 100,000 cases of liquor contracted for from the American Distillery Co and Foster and Co, on grounds the companies were posting insufficient collateral to cover the 14-month delivery period Atty Gen Thomas J. Herbert asked for immediate hearing

Loss of Mobility Greatest Blow To German Army

Swedish Author Declares Wehrmacht No Longer Possesses Flexibility Although 11,000,000 Are Under Arms.

By The Associated Press

STOCKHOLM — Germany still a great war power but nearing the end of its military rope, has lost mobility, one of its greatest weapons, according to Arvid Fredborg, Swedish newspaper correspondent who returned home recently after two years in Berlin

Fredborg, who represented the conservative Stockholm paper Svenska Dagbladet, has written a book, Behind the Steel Wall, in which he says there are many factors in the German military picture despite numbers of soldiers and quantities of equipment

As he tells the story, while the third reich lost superiority in the air it also lost the advantage of moving land forces without molestation As transport and supply lines become more and more disorganized, the wehrmacht no longer can exploit inner lines to improve military positions.

The German army represents a powerful force, and while its spirit has grown worse its discipline is undiminished

On the fighting front the number of elite troops has been greatly reduced by heavy casualties, and inexperienced reservists are used to fill their ranks

The air force has been weakened not only in equipment but in men, as Marshaall Goering has released great numbers to the army. The air force probably does not have today more than 10,000 to 12,000 first line planes. Most are fighters, as aircraft production generally has been converted to fighters Since 1941 there have been 20,000 training accidents

Improved in Submarines

The German navy has not been improved except in submarines. They have shown a conspicuous lack of activity in the last few months, but the general opinion is that Germany is holding back a U-boat reserve to combat invasion.

Coast artillery has been improved gradually to meet an invasion It is strongest along the English channel, but heavy fortifications dot the North sea coast

While the whole German community is overworked and suffering from nervous exhaustion, one should underrate its strength Nazism is not going to fall like the walls of Jericho The reich has reserves, and cards which have not been played Among these are new weapons They are not to be overrated, but it would be a mistake to believe they are just propaganda

Only last June a German official said that defensive action would be carried through with, among other things, the help of long range artillery During the first World war the Germans surprised the world with their 120-kilometer guns At the end they melted the guns and the allies never got hold of them There is nothing now to prevent them from making guns with a range of double that distance

However, to have a decisive influence the explosive must have an effect totally different from those known today, or the projectile must have enormous weight. In the latter case, there is a possibility that the rocket system is being considered

With a range of 240 kilometers for cannon the Germans could, from well protected battery positions on the continent, bombard great parts of London and seriously damage England But no war decision in favor of Germany could be obtained that way

Nazi Army Still Strong

Germany's war machine still is held in high respect At present it is comprised of about 295 divisions and all together amounts to 11,000,000 men.

Of the total, however, only half can be considered a real army. Nobody outside military circles knows the exact disposition of German forces but Fredborg estimates they have about 270 infantry and 1 ght divisions of 15,000 men each, making 4,050 000 men, 25 armored and motorized divisions out of 8 000 men, making 210 000 men heavy artillery and special troops numbering 2 000 000 the reserve of 1,000 000 air anti-aircraft force 1,000 000 police troops 500 000 communications personnel 500 000 air force, 500 000 navy 250 000 coast artillery, 150 000 and 2 000,000 in organization to do labor service, etc making a total of 10 850 000 under direct German control

The Bulgarian army has 20 divisions totaling 650 000 men The Rumanian army has 25 divisions all of which are only partially organized The Slovakian army has 100 000 men, the Croatian 100 000 Italian Fascists 50,000 and volunteers from other countries amount to about 20,000

Finland is counted as having 300,000 men, while the Hungarians could produce about 40 divisions, in all 1,100 000 men

Germany controls a huge number of men, but today has a deficit in armed forces because it must apportion them over fortress Europe

The problem of supplying troops underscores the shortage of oil and gasoline to keep the motors, planes and transports moving German experts state that the country needs 22,000 000 tons of oil and gasoline yearly for offensive warfare Defensive warfare will hardly require more than 15,000,000 to 15,500,000 tons a year.

$350,000 Fire Wrecks Toledo Oil Refinery

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O, Sept. 28—A night fire caused an estimated $350,000 damage at the Fiske Brothers Refining Co, destroyed numerous oil tanks and plant equipment, and injured three firemen

The blaze quickly spread through the four-story plant and firemen were pampered by low water pressure The factory was used to blend oils and produce lubricants.

Company officials said they believed the fire started spontaneously from gas generated in a kettle which had been used to boil about 40 000 pounds of grease.

. . . for accepting with good nature the unusual travel conditions of this past summer

Between July 1st and Labor Day, Greyhound buses carried tens of millions of wartime travelers. For their good-natured acceptance of unusual present-day travel conditions, we sincerely thank these travelers—as well as all those people who postponed taking trips until the greatest rush was over.

Such cooperation made it possible for us to serve more soldiers and sailors on leave than ever before, more war workers, more essential travelers of every type. In addition, selectees and enlisted reservists by the thousands were transported and great numbers of children taken to summer camps—a job designated as essential by government agencies.

Your continued cooperation will do much to ease wartime bus travel in the months to come.

New Victory Ship Will Carry Name Of Annie Oakley

By The Associated Press

GREENVILLE, O., Sept. 28—The name of Annie Oakley, an Ohio girl whose skill with a rifle became legendary, will ride on a victory ship.

The maritime commission announced in Washington recently that a merchant vessel being built by the California Shipbuilding Corp. at Wilmington, Calif., would honor the Darke countian who shaved playing cards with a bullet and once shot a cigaret from the lips of the man who later became Kaiser Wilhelm II of Germany.

She was born Phoebe Anne Oakley Mozee on Aug. 13, 1860, in a log cabin in Patterson township, Darke county, and at the age of nine had acquired local reputation as a dead shot.

When Annie was 21, Sitting Bull of the Sioux Indians became so impressed with her marksmanship that he nicknamed her "Little Sure Shot."

Annie married vaudeville performer Frank E. Butler several years after defeating him in a shooting match, and soon jumped from assistant to feature performer in his act. In 1885 they joined Buffalo Bill Cody's wild west show, after touring the country with Sells Brothers circus.

For 17 years Annie was one of the chief features of Cody's show, a favorite of audiences here and abroad. Queen Victoria was charmed by her, and the crown prince of Germany (later Wilhelm II) paid tribute to her skill by insisting that she shoot a cigaret from his lips.

The records show that in one contest with a .22 rifle Annie broke 943 out of 1,000, and in a single day made a sweep of 4,772 out of 5,000. At 30 paces she could hit dimes tossed in air and could slice a playing-card with the thin edge toward her.

Partially paralyzed for a time as a result of injuries received in a railroad wreck in 1901, Annie Oakley nevertheless went on to chalk up some of her most sensational feats during the next two decades.

She lived for a number of years at Nutley, N. J., later at Pinehurst, N. C., and in Florida. But she often returned to her native Ohio, and died in Greenville on Nov. 3, 1926, at the age of 67. She was buried at Brock near her birthplace.

SHIPS COLLIDE

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 28—A pre-dawn ship collision outside the Golden Gate yesterday sheared 25 feet off the stern of a 110-foot navy sub-chaser and spilled seven sleeping sailors into the ocean, two of them to probable death. The 12th naval district said the severed section of the subchaser sank quickly. Rescue craft succeeding in towing the forward part of the vessel into port.

PROGRAM OUTLINED IN COUNTY SCHOOLS

Committees Named at Meeting of Superintendents.

The county basketball program was discussed at a recent meeting of Marion county district school superintendents in the office of County Supt. D. T. Mills in the courthouse. It was decided to use the 1941-42 schedule reversed. It was also decided to disregard the split-county plan used last year but to conduct the basketball program with the county as one unit.

Mr. Mills appointed a committee, which will be in charge of the year's program, will assign referees and assume other duties entering into the sport. Serving on the committee are A. B. Augenstein of Claridon, Clayton Barden of LaRue, Paul Furniss of Agosta, W. H. Harrington of Kirkpatrick and H. C. Secrest of Prospect.

A research committee was also appointed by Mr. Mills. It is composed of E. E. Banning of Pleasant, Clayton Barden of LaRue, Clyde Forry of Waldo, Orin McGlone of Grand Prairie and Herbert Moore of Martel. The particular project of this group will be to study all angles of the problems arising from attendance and non-attendance, including a study of curriculum and boy and girl interests, among other things. The material assembled will be turned over to Supt. Forry to be incorporated in a thesis on the graduate level that Mr. Forry is pursuing at Ohio State university.

Another committee was appointed at the meeting. The group which will be in charge of tests and general educational objectives, consists of G. W. Cox of Caledonia, Ivan Barnhart of Green Camp, W. H. Harrington of Kirkpatrick, B. F. Bemiller of Meeker and V. L. Anderson of Morral. The function of the committee is to initiate any educational research activity, aid in selecting all tests, evaluate results of tests, to have charge of administration of parts of the state testing program, with a possible study of problem policies included.

MORE OIL THAN WATER

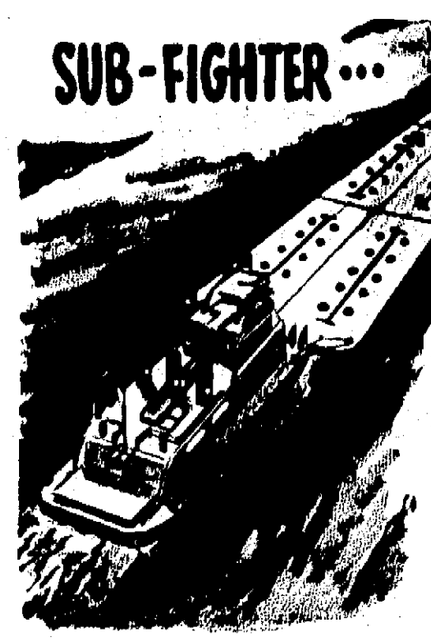
EVER WONDERED JUST HOW IMPORTANT OIL IS TO AMERICA? WE ACTUALLY USE MORE OIL THAN DRINKING WATER! (AN AVERAGE OF 17 QUARTS A DAY PER FAMILY IN 1941.) IN MAKING STEEL, FOR EXAMPLE, IT TAKES A BARREL OF OIL TO PRODUCE EACH TON.

RUBBER THAT GROWS UNDER THE GROUND!

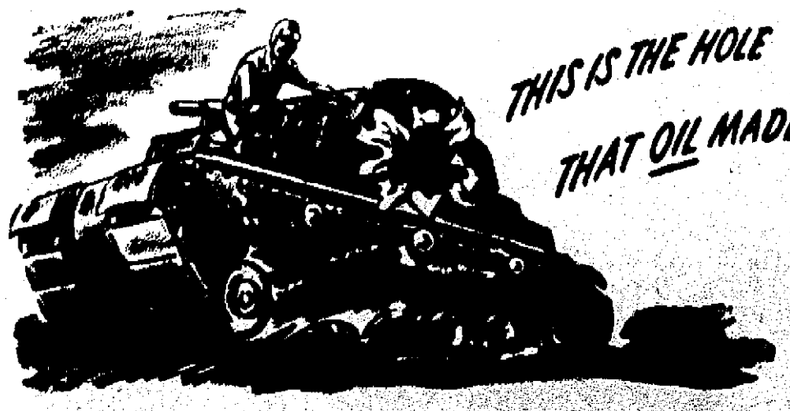
FROM DEEP IN THE EARTH COMES OIL. AND NOW, THANKS TO A MIRACLE OF PETROLEUM CHEMISTRY, AMERICA IS GETTING SYNTHETIC RUBBER FROM THAT OIL.

SYNTHETIC RUBBER FOR OUR PLANES, TANKS, SHIPS AND GUNS -- FOR OUR TRUCKS AND CARS. SYNTHETIC RUBBER FOR VICTORY!

SUB-FIGHTER ... ON THE OHIO!



THE SOHIOAN IS THE NEWEST AND BIGGEST OF ELEVEN SOHIO TOWBOATS THAT BRING OIL UP THE MISSISSIPPI AND OHIO RIVERS TO THE MIDWEST - A ROUTE THE U-BOATS CAN'T GET AT. ON EACH TRIP, THE SOHIOAN "PUSHES" AN AMOUNT OF OIL EQUIVALENT TO 4 MILES OF TANK CARS - FREEING THOSE VITALLY-NEEDED CARS FOR OTHER USE!



THIS IS THE HOLE THAT OIL MADE!

NEW 57-MM. ANTITANK SHELLS THAT CUT THROUGH THICK ENEMY TANK ARMOR LIKE BUTTER ARE NOW BEING MADE IN OHIO. AND THE SHELL CAP THAT MAKES THIS POSSIBLE OWES ITS EXTREME TOUGHNESS TO A NEW KIND OF OIL DEVELOPED BY SOHIO. THIS REMARKABLE "CUTTING OIL" PERMITS THE CAPS TO BE MADE OF THE SAME HARD STEEL AS IS USED IN THE MACHINE TOOLS THAT SHAPE IT!

DID YOU KNOW THIS?

4,000 "B" ration coupons an hour! Just end U. S. mechanized division, traveling at normal road speed, burns up 16,000 gallons of gasoline an hour—the equivalent of 4,000 "A" gas coupons!

Oil is unconditional in one of our Navy Yards. 5,000 workers avoid between six and 25 strikes by automobile every day. They have no other way of getting to work.

Asphalt is a new dress. Every day hundreds of tons of SOHIO Asphalt are trucked out of our refineries for war use. To save steel, SOHIO Asphalt is now shipped in newly-developed paper drums.

Butyl—a name to remember. Most common type of synthetic rubber at present is Buna S. Moreover, the oil industry is also making BUTYL synthetic rubber, which is especially useful for gas masks, raincoats, rubber boats, barrage balloons and many other war necessities.

Not on sale—they work! An outstanding accomplishment of the petroleum industry has been to supply our armed forces with lubricants and fuels which enable equipment to operate equally well in all types of climates—from Alaska to the tropics.

Chicago Fire Fans Group Includes Factory Presidents

By International News Service

CHICAGO — There is a group of men in Chicago that has what is probably the worst hangover in history. It is psychological and goes back to the time they were kids and their heart's desire was to be a fireman or follow a fire

They never got over the thrill of chasing the red wagon, these Chicagoans, and that is the bond that has united them for the last 50 years

Without organization or name they have a mysterious underground system whereby word of a fire spreads like magic, bringing together, any time of day or night, a miscellany of bankers, company presidents, attorneys, etc., interested in but one thing—to watch the blaze.

Always Ready to Aid

They are "fire fans" willing to be helpful if called upon by the firemen in an emergency and well known to members of many a hook and ladder gang.

Following are a few penetrating testimonials as to how they "got that way":

George Gilman, 69, president of the Rotary Steel Co., and only living member of the Fire Fans club that was limited to 13 members and existed in Chicago 30 years ago

"When I was a little boy, we lived near an engine house, and a man named Dave Mahoney used to let me sit on the seat of the fire engine with him I've followed fires ever since and have grown to know most of the men in the department and to like them."

A Regular Disease

William Hopkins, 66, of the Upper Avenue Bank, who was a fireman himself for 28 years:

"It's a disease that seems impossible to cure I've known all the chiefs from B J Sweeney on and liked them all I never would think of mixing into operations, because then I'd be interfering My wife has caught the fever, too, and sometimes she goes along with me."

Homer V. Boyd of the Board of Trade, who has been all over the country in behalf of Chicago's fire department and is registered in fire-houses in Europe, as well:

"I have been interested in fires for 40 years, ever since the days my brother first listened to the telegraph in the firehouse near our home."

Impelled to Aid

Edwin L. Brand, real estate broker who has been following the fires for nearly 50 years, was born and raised near a firehouse. So was another fan, John Foy, president of the American Electrotype Co.

Said Foy:

"If I miss a fire, I just don't feel right about it."

MRS. MYRTLE WILSON RITES

Former Judge Explains Change in Testimony

By The Associated Press

GREENVILLE, O., Sept. 28—Former Probate Judge Harry A Miles says he reversed his testimony concerning fees in an estate settlement because "my conscience made me come in here and tell the true story."

Under cross-examination yesterday in the trial of T. A. Billingsley, a member of the state racing commission charged with bribery, Miles repeated his testimony of last week that he had agreed to allow $10,900 in attorney fees in the Village S. Marker estate and was to receive $1,500. He referred to his conscience in reply to a question of counsel Billingsley was attorney for administrators of the estate.

Miles testified at his own trial several months ago that there was no such agreement. He has appealed his conviction on a charge of soliciting a bribe

Common Pleas Judge R L. Cameron of Union county overruled a motion for a directed verdict of acquittal of Billingsley after the state rested its case.

THERE'S A LIMIT

By The United Press

MEMPHIS, TENN.—City Judge R. G. Kinkle has called attention to one of the finer points of law here. Under Memphis law, women may wear slacks, but must not wear men's pants. It's all right for the girls to wear slacks which were made for women, but they mustn't put on hubby's trousers and appear in public. Pointing out that Memphis has a law which prohibits the members of one sex from wearing the clothing of the opposite sex, Judge Kinkle said that considerable trouble has been caused recently by girls or women, dressed in men's pants, who were involved in robbery and holdup cases.

SEES POST-WAR READING

By The United Press

MIDDLEBURY, VT. — A tremendous book-buying spree after the war is predicted by Fletcher Pratt, military critic and feature writer. "Members of the armed forces have turned to reading as the only form of amusement readily available to them," Pratt said. He added that soldiers had developed the book-reading habit and after the war woul demand more books, especially in cheap pocket editions. Pratt maintained that this audience was entirely new and that million-copy sales would be commonplace.

Three Veteran, Two New Programs Open

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—Before the week is out, three programs in the network veteran class will be back on the air, also two new series get under way.

Return of the veterans starts tonight at 9:30 on NBC with the resumption of Fibber McGee and Molly, continues Wednesday night at 9 when Eddie Cantor opens another year and reaches a climax on CBS at 8 Friday night with Kate Smith back on her former hour schedule after a season cut to half an hour.

Both of the new features are for Thursday night on different networks. One is headed by Dinah Shore, who for several seasons has been singing with Eddie Cantor.

The other has Gertrude Lawrence as the star in her first regular radio series. It is for the Blue at 10:30.

Caledonia Soldier In Group Reported Missing

The war department officially announced today that Tech. Sgt Charles W. Speece, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Speece of Caledonia, is missing in action in the North African area, The Associated Press reported. Speece's name was one of 12 names listed in the announcement as missing in the European area, North African area and the Southwest Pacific area

Details of Sgt Speece being reported missing were published in The Star Sept 14, shortly after his parents had been notified. Sgt. Speece was a radio operator on a heavy bomber.

Nazi Gestapo Starts New Terror Reign in Denmark

By The Associated Press

STOCKHOLM, Sept 28—A new reign of terror began in Denmark today as Gen Kurt Daluege, ruthless troubleshooter for Heinrich Himmler's gestapo, took over control of the country from General Hermann Von Hannecken, who has been military dictator since Aug. 28.

The Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter said one of Daluege's first acts was to start the deportation of 6,000 Danish Jews.

Russia Has Won Its War

ONLY a dope try to do two things well at the same time can explain America's present failure to understand the tremendous thing that has happened in Russia. We have been concentrating too much on Italy and neglecting the momentous German retreat on the eastern front.

Russia has won its war and is making Germany pay for defeat. The German army being routed westward never will recover from its staggering losses. Not only has it left manpower and war equipment behind, but prestige. It is defeated in its own mind, just as surely as Napoleon's army was defeated on its "withdrawal" from Russia.

Germany now has reached a condition in Russia from which it can be extricated with less than maximum losses only by an accident of weather. Its desperation is being revealed not only in Russian communiques describing sensational advances, but in German communiques admitting losses. The entire complexion of the war is being changed by accumulating proof that Russia at last has fought its way out of danger. The Germans are in serious trouble at every point on their long Russian front, at the worst points, they will be lucky to get out alive. At every point, they are getting out the best way they can, at a cost Germany can not afford to pay at this stage of its second unsuccessful bid for power.

This is the background of every current move in Washington and London. It explains all military and political arrangements—appointment of Gen. Marshall as Allied commander-in-chief, stronger assurances of a conference among representatives of Russia, the United States and Great Britain and preparation of the Anglo-American public for large-scale invasion action at some new point in the near future. Russia has won its war with Germany, except for the mopping-up. The United States and Great Britain are winning their war with Germany, too, but still not decisively enough to claim the victory Russia will be able to claim, unless the fleeing Germans are saved from utter ruin by the weather.

Degrees of Essentiality

THERE are fireworks in the challenge to the federal government to give up a larger portion of its draft-eligible employes. Some congressmen are in a mood to settle once and for all the issue of the government's right to draw a line of special privilege around its official family.

This is not strictly a wartime question. It arose in the last 10 years while the federal government increased its payroll contrary to the national trend of cutting payrolls. It has been aggravated by the war, which has accelerated the government hiring rate in the midst of a manpower shortage.

The government might argue that every civilian employe is essential. Many private industries, struggling with manpower shortages and crippled by loss of men to the armed services, could make the same argument. Many private employes, working at essential war production, have every reason to believe they are fully as important as most of the government workers who wear out typewriter ribbons and carbon paper in the name of public service. If there are to be degrees of essentiality and government workers are to enjoy special treatment, that is a public issue. It should be threshed out forthwith, not merely in an effort to produce needed manpower but in order to remind officeholders that even in wartime they are still working for the people who pay their wages.

Too Little, Too Late for Germany

THE glider torpedo reported in use by Germany's air force for attacks on shipping will be, if it works, the war's first new weapon. But if this is what Hitler meant in his latest speech when he threatened Germany's enemies with terrible revenge, it is too little and too late.

By an ironic twist, the weapons that are winning the war are nothing but better developed models of the weapons Germany adapted from the crude versions manufactured originally by its enemies. Allied heavy bombers, better than German heavy bombers, are demonstrating the potentialities of bombing. Allied tanks, armored cars, artillery and even submarines, Germany's best weapon, are overcoming the myth of German superiority so widely subscribed to in 1939. The German "nerve gas" that was going to demoralize the enemy proved to be nothing but propaganda gas. The vaunted Stukas, when finally put to the test against an antagonist prepared to cope with them, turned out to be dive bombers too slow to hold their own against first class fighting planes. And the glider torpedo, when its potentialities have been discovered, probably will turn out to be just another weapon of limited usefulness.

So They Say—

The war-breeding gangs of militarists must be rooted out of Germany and out of Japan if we are to have any real assurance of future peace.—President Roosevelt.

An island hopping victory with extravagant losses and slow progress is not my idea of how to end the war as soon and as cheaply as possible.—General MacArthur.

News Behind the News

Marshall Promotion Not Believed Due to British Pressure; Possible Successors Listed.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28—The Army and the Journal, which generally [illegible] Army viewpoint although [illegible] government [illegible] permitted to the public, has suggested that General Marshall [illegible] of staff, Lieutenant General McNair, in charge of training and Lieutenant General Somervell, of services of supply, have been suggested.

The officially inspired press stories suggested that an announcement would be made at the President's press conference on Friday, but the conference was called off.

Marshall has many friends in Washington and powerful support for retaining him in his present position. He gets along exceptionally well with congressmen. Both the house and senate military affairs committees like him, and most of them would not like to see him go.

The only criticism heard of Marshall by anyone here has come from advocates of brilliant and fast military action who consider his war strategy to be methodical. Instead of attempting amazing exploits, the whole American strategy in both the Atlantic and the Pacific so far has been to bide its time until it could accumulate superior numbers and force and [illegible] the expected more often than the unexpected.

Course Followed So Far

This is especially true of the course of the Mediterranean attack from Tunisia to Sicily to Italy, although the original Tunisian landing in the Germans would hardly be considered in that category.

The kind of military task that are good are those that are successful because they are methodical or daring.

Appointment of a top over-all man to coordinate the activities in both the Atlantic and the Pacific so that blows may be timed properly would seem to be a good idea. The time has come when some of the fleet can be released from the Mediterranean and the diminution of submarine warfare in the Atlantic should permit the concentration of additional vessels for the Pacific offensive which was projected as the primary accomplishment of the Quebec conference.

However the job may not be as big as the title, as strategy has been decided.

General McNair and McNarney are both what might be called staff Army men, while General Somervell was out of the Army for some time particularly while he was in WPA work in New York, and as a friend of Harry Hopkins, the President's right hand man.

Friend of Hopkins

The choice of Somervell would be interpreted as an effort by Mr. Roosevelt to put his own man in charge there, and would not be popular with congress where Hopkins' friends do not have many friends, or at least a majority of them right now.

But, in view of all the factors involved, the course of events had indicated much speculation has gone awry, also that the President has not made up his mind what to do when the unofficial announcements were made in the press, or last Friday when the official announcement was due.

Marshall --- First Globalissimo?

Chief-of-Staff Marshall once spoke back to a general.

Associated Press Features

GENERAL GEORGE CATLETT MARSHALL, architect of the first big American Army ever built in peace time, is now being talked of as the man who may assume the unprecedented position of globalissimo for Anglo-American fighting forces.

Never in military history has one man shouldered such a job—a job that calls for coordinating the movement of millions of men and their material on land, sea and air all over the globe.

Pershing's Man

The tall, sandy-haired chief of staff emerged from World War I known among his colleagues as "Pershing's man" who went to France as a captain and remained to man the decisive Meuse-Argonne offensive.

General Pershing had had his eye on this fireside-faced fellow, for Marshall had spoken right up to the general once and told him a training maneuver flopped because the men had not been given enough time to prepare.

Pershing said Marshall had performed a "stupendous task" in the Meuse-Argonne drive, and he made him his aide-de-camp a post the future chief of staff held until 1924.

Soldier Ambition

Born Dec. 31, 1880 at Uniontown, Pa., Marshall had been bent on a career as a soldier from boyhood. He began it unconsciously in 1901, and was graduated from Virginia Military Institute with the honor position of first captain of his class.

The Army sent him to the Philippines. Hardly had he arrived before he was put in command of extensive troop maneuvers. The officer who planned them had been taken ill. Marshall took over without advance notice.

His handling of the troops so tickled General Johnson Haygood that he proposed that Marshalll be promoted forthwith from lieutenant to brigadier general.

Marshall instead, had to wait 35 years to attain that rank in 1936. He was promoted to major in 1920, lieutenant colonel in 1923, and colonel in 1933.

President Roosevelt skipped past 34 other higher-ranking generals to appoint him as chief of staff in 1939 and to raise his rank to major-general.

Known in the Army as a stricht disciplinarian, Marshall at the same time is affable, and a remarkably good story teller, say his colleagues.

The general turns to horseback riding, tennis and canoeing for recreation. In days of peace, General Marshall was up and to work early so that he could get away from his office sooner.

"Nobody," he says, "ever had an original idea after 3 o'clock."

Today and Tomorrow

Philippine Independence Proposal Brings U. S.-Asiatic Policy Into Spotlight.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE senators may well be right in not wishing to debate now the abstract and general proposition laid down in the Fulbright resolution. The action of the house is a clear and unimpeachable expression of public opinion, and the next step is to move from the general principle to the particular and practical application of it.

Though little attention has been paid to it as yet, something happened last week which will compel congress to face the real issues of our foreign policy, or admit that it is not interested in them. By an agreement reached by President Roosevelt, Secretary Hull and President Quezon, a resolution has been introduced in the senate by Mr. Tydings and in the house by Mr. Bell of Missouri, to give the Philippine Islands their complete independence at any time within 30 days of the passage of the resolution. Under existing law, known as the Tydings-McDuffie act, the Philippines become an independent sovereign state on July 4, 1946.

This action is being taken to counteract the Japanese move to set up a Quisling puppet government in Manila.

Since no one will pretend that the Philippines alone are capable of defending themselves, the question must be faced as to how the Philippines are to be defended after the United Nations have recovered them from the Japanese. Under the existing act, the United States retains its "naval reservations and fueling stations" after full independence is granted and until a treaty dealing with them has been negotiated with the Philippine government. But the land and air defenses of the islands pass at once out of our hands.

It is evident that this act, which was passed in 1934, takes no account of the fact, so amply demonstrated at Hawaii and Singapore that a navy cannot defend a naval base. It places upon the Filipinos an implied obligation to defend, though they lack the means, our naval bases, and it places us in the position where we have a naval base at a distance of 7,000 miles to which we cannot guarantee an assured defense.

Regardless of what Japanese propaganda or Filipino Quislings may make of it, this is not a statesmanlike solution of the problem. Senator Tydings says that we must take this action as a propaganda measure. It would be better propaganda because far more convincing to the thoughtful if we took the position that the effective independence of the islands must be accomplished by the formation of a reliable regime of security in the Pacific.

A Filipino who does not see that is not fit to govern an independent state. An American who does not see that is making the fatal error of creating a distant entanglement without providing the necessary means to carry out the commitment.

For what earthly good is independence to the Philippines if the United States is incapable of defending them? And how can the United States afford to retain the commitment, which the naval bases as well as considerations of humanity would entail, if no agreements have been reached which make secure the whole region in which the islands lie? We cannot withdraw entirely, and wash our hands of the Philippines, without washing our hands also of China, the Netherlands Indies, Australia. The Philippines are the strategic center of that whole region. If it were our intention to leave the Far East, we need not have had a war with Japan in 1941.

On the other hand we cannot take the tremendous risk of staying there with just enough force to get into trouble and with not enough force to be invulnerable. If Bataan and Corregidor have not burned that lesson upon our minds, we are hard to teach when it comes to foreign affairs.

Philippine Question

The Philippine question is, therefore, inextricably bound up with the whole settlement in the Pacific and eastern Asia. If it is advisable to pass the Tydings bill now, let it be done. But let it not be done without our making it clear that we are aware of the problem and of its immense consequences. To act as if we thought the independence of the Philippines were something which could be enacted by a congressional vote would be reckless and imprudent to the last degree.

The independence of the Phil-

No Matter Where They Happen to Meet, Brooklyn Natives Discover Something in Common.

By DAMON RUNYON

Mr. Joe Turp writes from Hollywood—

DEAR SIR. The other night I took Ethel to the movies and after [illegible] sitting at a parlor on Vine street having a few beers when a young guy in a marine uniform walks up to me and sez how are you from? I sez I am from Brooklyn. He sez Brooklyn? I sez O a rubber, hey? He sez no, a United States Marine. I sez I see you are a United States Marine is something I sez you can say it again. I sez I have plenty about your gang.

Ethel sez Joe I wouldn't talk to that guy. I think he wants to start an argument. He sez who is the beautiful little thing you got? I sez that is my wife Mrs. Joe Turp. I sez I am Mr. Joe Turp. We are both from Brooklyn. He sez on the level what's Brooklyn? I sez Brooklyn must be such a small place. You know what's Brooklyn, everybody knows what's Brooklyn unless they are actually stupid. Brooklyn is the nicest place in the whole world but lets not talk to him. I am sure he wants to start an argument.

THE GUY sez you are certainly a pretty thing and its too bad you didn't meet a United States marine before you married a soldier. Ethel sez I am not a thing. If you are. You are a beautiful little thing. He sez all right Wilbur we will let it go at that. He sez how did you know my name is Wilbur? I sez is it? He sez no. It is O-r-v-i-l-l-e. Orville. My mother likes it but my old man says it is terrible. I see by the ribbon on your coat that you have been somewheres.

I sez yes I have been in North Africa. He sez O you was in the little part of the war. I sez what do you mean the little part. He sez I mean the Little part. Personally I was in the big part. Ethel sez come on Joe let's go before somebody insults us. The guy sez you are certainly a beautiful little thing.

I sez where was the big part? He sez was in Goodle. I sez what's Goodle? He sez Guadalcanal is Goodlecanal, you dope. I was there when it was plenty hot. We didn't have no hayride like you guys in North Africa. Do you want to argue about it? He sez don't let my being a United States marine intimidate you. I will argue with you about anything you like.

ETHEL sez Joe I told you that fellow was looking for an argument. He sez hello again you beautiful little thing. I sez look pal, I see you are annoying my wife Ethel with that crack so can it. He sez do you mean I am annoying her by calling her a beautiful little thing? Why she is a beautiful little thing. I am surprised at you, sir. You are not being very cordial to a poor lonesome United States marine.

Ethel sez are you really lonesome and not just looking for trouble? He sez why is a beautiful little thing I had enough trouble on Goodle to last me the rest of my life. I am sure enough lonesome you beautiful little thing. Ethel sez Joe I think he really is lonesome and please ask him to have a beer. I see that beautiful little thing business is commencing to work is it? The guy sez do you deny that she is a beautiful little thing? I never saw a more beautiful little thing even on Bedford avenue.

Ethel sez, ah ha. I knew you were just trying to kid somebody when you sez what's Brooklyn. I knew you were probably from there yourself. The guy says that's correct you beautiful little thing and I got hep to where you two are from when I overheard you talking together and wishing you was back there. Let's drink a few beers among ourselves to Brooklyn.

So we drank the beers and stood there talking until 12 o'clock when the bartender sez lady and gentlemen we are closing now and I am glad of it because I never got so sick of hearing of Brooklyn since the Dodgers was in the world series. I am from Cincinnati myself.

Yours truly,
Joe Turp.

Alma Mater

By Truman Twill

A football follower who intends to roost in the stands if it kills him has put in a request for information about getting up for alma mater. This is a problem for fans who want to do the right thing.

This particular fan's schooling stopped just before he reached the alma mater level in education. His alma mater was a delivery truck. He is one of the boys who don't belong. His alma mater song is "The Star Spangled Banner," you might say.

But when he goes to a football game, he finds he is expected—or seems to be expected—to stand up and take off his hat not only for the "Banner," but at least two other numbers on the program. These, he says, always sound the same. Everybody falls silent and the band goes out with funeral music. He says it is a solemn occasion not only for the listeners but for the band.

If he decides he will not stand up this time but remain comfortably seated with his hat on his head where it belongs, his wife, his date or somebody else's wife or kid makes some dirty crack and maybe belts him in the shin with a foot. He gets the impression they do not want to think they are in the midst of educated people.

But if he gets up for both alma maters when seems to be the way out, he presently announces he doesn't know his own mind, is a dirty fifth columnist trying to pick up secrets from the enemy. All this, he says, makes him very uncomfortable in his mind, besides giving him an uncomfortable airing on the seat of the pants. What he wants to know, says he, is what to do about it?

The thing to do, brother, is wear two pairs of pants and get up. It's the only way you can see what's going on. Besides, you'll need the practice. Every time a halfback breaks away for more than a 10-yard gain you're going to have to get up anyway. That's one of the rules, like waiting till the fellow in front of you gets comfortably seated again before asking him for a match.

Get up for all music. Spring to attention every time the band gives out. Whip off your hat and stand in starry-eyed rapture. You'll make everybody uncomfortable then because they think it's your alma mater, and they'll want to get up, too. After all, never forget that a wrong note on a bass horn might be somebody's alma mater.

It will be hard going, but if you work at it this whole alma mater business may get so that no one will get up, but just sit still with cold heads waiting for it to blow over. Don't worry too much on it, though. A lot of football fans with no alma mater to guide them still want the other fans to think they were brought up out of all the best places.

If we can't hit them while they're off balance, as they are now, we lose much of the military advantage we have and prolong the whole struggle.—Gen George C. Marshall.

Miss Kaelber And Richard Retterer Married at Waldo

A single ring ceremony uniting Miss Ruth Kaelber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Kaelber of Waldo and Richard Retterer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Retterer also of Waldo, was solemnized Saturday evening in the St. Paul Lutheran church in Waldo by Rev. C. Long. The candles were lighted by Doris Kaelber, sister of the bride, and Mary Lou Moyer.

Miss Juanita Retterer a sister of the bridegroom, and Robert Kaelber, twin brother of the bride, were the attendants. Ushers were Jane Moyer, Clara Mae Moyer and Junior Ebert.

Just before the ceremony, Oscar Kaelber, soloist and Mrs. Melvin Bernard, sister of the bride, played a half-hour of nuptial music. The latter numbers included, "Liebestraum," "Mon Desir," "In Love Only" and "Melody of Love." Mr. Kaelber's selections were "Because," "At Dawning," "I Love You Truly" and "Promise Me." The traditional wedding marches were also played.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Harley Meyer, chose a two-piece dress of royal blue chiffon velvet with wine accessories for her wedding costume. Her corsage was of white gardenias. Miss Retterer was costumed in navy blue and wore a corsage of pink roses. The bride's mother wore a black costume and Miss Retterer was attired in blue. Both wore corsages of white roses.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Retterer are both graduates of Waldo High school. She is employed at the Chamber of Commerce in Marion. The couple will make their home east of Waldo where the bridegroom is engaged in farming.

Miss Wilma Ehrick Elected To State Office in Sorority

MISS Wilma Ehrick of South Prospect street was elected pro-primus of the Gradale sorority at the fall conference of the state organization, held Saturday and Sunday at Fort Hayes Hotel in Columbus. Members of Alpha and Beta chapters of Marion were hostesses for the two-day session.

Mrs. Carl Dachler of Portsmouth, was chosen primus, Miss Phyllis Kelly of Newark, tribune, Miss Irene McCune of North Canton, corresponding tribune, Miss Bernice Stoffer of Tiffin, quaester and Miss Bea Shephard of Newark, mentor. Chillicothe was chosen for the 1944 conference which will be held the last weekend in September.

Miss Ehrick is head of the Beta chapter, and Miss Catherine Watson of Alpha chapter here.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Franklin of 921 Bennett street are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Dayle, to Rubin Patrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ashland Patrick of McArthur, O.

The single ring ceremony took place Sept. 11 in Greenup, Ky., with Rev. Ben E. Hunt performing the service. For her wedding, Miss Franklin chose a copen blue suit with white accessories with which she wore a corsage of sweet peas and baby breath.

Witnessing the ceremony were Mrs. Alvin Franklin and Mrs. Ashland Patrick.

Mr. Patrick is employed at the Marion Steam Shovel Co. and for the present time, the couple will make their home with the bride's parents on Bennett street.

GERMAN PUBLIC EYES RUSSIANS

Growing Concern Reported at Home as Red Advance Continues.

By The Associated Press

BERN, Switzerland, Sept. 28—The German public and the nation's Balkan satellites kept an uneasy eye on the Dnieper river today amid general speculation as to when the Nazi retreat in Russia is going to end.

There has been no attempt upon the part of Paul Joseph Goebbels' office of propaganda to sugarcoat the seriousness of the situation on the eastern front. The Nazi propagandists, however, coined a new slogan, "gain strength through defense" as they elaborated the theme that the shortened Russian line creates reserves to meet the growing threat in Italy.

Nevertheless a Berlin dispatch to the Basel National Zeitung declared that the German public is "watching the east with burning interest."

Adolf Hitler's newspaper, the Voelkischer Beobachter, expressed hope the coming of autumn rains might bring a halt to the Soviet juggernaut.

(Berlin dispatches to Stockholm newspapers indicated that fighting may continue even in the rainy season because of technical improvements in both German and Russian equipment.)

The German propaganda ministry, meanwhile is making every effort to steel the nation for further bad news during the coming fifth winter of the war.

For Bulgaria, Hungary and Rumania, which have shown signs of repenting the day they cast their lot with the axis, the situation was growing serious.

Bulgaria, bound to Russia by racial ties, has been virtually under Nazi domination since the death of King Boris and Nazi agricultural specialists have been sped to Sofia to exact a heavier contribution of foodstuffs.

CIO FAMILIES TO VISIT DAY NURSERY

Open Hours Arranged for Wednesday Night.

In connection with the regular registration period at the Marion Day Nursery Wednesday night, an open house session for CIO union families and their friends has been arranged, CIO officials announced today. They are to be welcomed at the nursery, on Hill street, from 7:30 to 9:30 to view the work that has already been done and discuss with the leaders the plans for future development of the nursery, not only for the remainder of the war but for service in the years following.

CIO union members have donated much of the time spent in getting the nursery ready for operation, and are still active in sponsoring improvements of the property.

Badoglio's Desire To Get on Allied Wagon Confusing

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Premier Badoglio's seeming desire to bring his Italian government in on the side of the United Nations as an ally is causing some resentment among American and British soldiers as well as on the part of officers of the AMG (allied military government of occupied territories.)

"It wouldn't be surprising," reports Edward Kennedy, Associated Press war correspondent in Italy, "if Premier Badoglio issued a declaration of war on Germany as a means of getting into the winning camp and salvaging something in the post-war settlement.

"The idea of accepting the Italians as 'allies' however, is repugnant to many of the troops, who thought they had defeated the Italians once and for all and now find it strange to have Italians in charge of civil administration here and issuing decrees which indirectly affect the allied forces. Officers of the AMG who came here to administer the country have found their organization side-tracked while Italians control the civil air power, and they are resentful of the situation."

Lesson for Future

Well, it's easy to understand that feeling. Maybe, too, it's a good thing this has cropped up now, because we are going to have other defeated countries to deal with before long and it's important that we adjust our minds to the common-sense way of handling these situations. Take the case of Italy.

The allied objectives have called for unconditional surrender, wiping out of Fascism, punishment of Mussolini and his gang, disarmament depriving Italy of her ill-got empire and returning its component parts to rightful sovereignty, military occupation of Italy and AMG administration until such time as the people can choose a legitimate government of their own. We swore to do all this with firmness, and there's no indication we've weakened.

British Premier Churchill last week gave us a significant glimpse of allied determination to rid the world of gangsterism when he told with grim brevity how it happened that Nazi parachutists were able to rescue Mussolini. The Italian caribinieri who were guarding the ex-dictator failed to carry out their orders to shoot him if any delivery were attempted. That's to say, the duce was to be executed on the spot if there was danger of his escaping allied justice.

We shall get him again, just as we shall get Hitler and Tojo—dead or alive—and all their henchmen. Then punishment will be exacted, and it won't be tea and cakes.

War Not Ended

What we have to remember about Italy, however, before we get indignant over the trend of affairs, is that while the government capitulated, this didn't end the war on the peninsula by a long shot. We still have to wrest the country from the Germans.

In these circumstances one would expect the occupied portions to continue under military rule, thereby perhaps delaying the establishment of AMG. It isn't surprising either that the Allies are encouraging the Italians to fight the Germans. That doesn't mean the Italians are being invited to become our allies; they're being invited to help themselves. They still must take their punishment.

However, when we have dealt with Musso — imprisoned him, hanged him, or compelled him to listen continually to phonograph records of his own bombastic speeches, as a colleague of mine suggests—and when we have carried out the other announced allied aims, how much further would the average American want to go in the way of retribution? Not a great way, I'll gamble.

The allied leaders have made it clear that there's no intention of crushing the Italian people, but, on the contrary, of helping them get a fresh start. It strikes me as highly important that this be emphasized, and certainly that we don't allow ourselves to be sent off on some emotional tangent.

We've got to be tough, but we don't have to try to be tougher than we are by nature. Other axis nations are watching Italy. No country will surrender if it believes it's going to be enslaved, as the people of Germany, for example, are being told by Hitler and Goebbels. Anyway, all arguments notwithstanding, we'll probably be smart to let the very capable General Ike Eisenhower have a fling at running his own job.

During the 12 months of 1942 the Army air forces within the continental United States flew a distance equal to 81,170 trips around the earth.

ALLIES STRIKE JAPS IN NEW DIRECTION

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 28—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, whose New Guinea troops have won virtually complete control of 80 important miles of coast line from Salamaua to Finschhafen since Sept. 12, now have opened a thrust toward Madang, 150 more shoreline miles to the northwest.

This movement while Australians are battering at the last Japanese defenses before tottering Finschhafen is an overland one developing in the broad Markham valley at a point 68 miles northwest of Lae.

Today's communique disclosed the capture of Sagerak, a village approximately 70 miles south and slightly east of Madang. It was the first hint of a land drive in that direction.

Sagerak is eight miles northwest of Kaiapit, a valley village where Sept. 18, two days after the fall of Lae, big transport planes landed on a grassy field and unloaded Australian soldiers who clashed with an enemy force of 200, killing 120 and routing the others.

Whether Sagerak's capture was achieved by the airborne force which took Kaiapit or meant a consolidated allied line for all the 68 miles from that air base back to the airstrip of Nadzab, seized by paratroopers Sept. 5.

Today's communique reported a 28-ton bombing by fighter-escorted Liberators of Hansa bay, midway between Madang and Wewak and a 53-ton raid on two airdromes at Wewak.

LEADERS TOLD U. S. FOES GROW STRONGER

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28—Despite recent setbacks the military might of both Germany and Japan is greater today than when they set out to conquer the world.

That's the concensus voiced by United States military leaders at a conference of industrial, labor and newspaper executives called by the war department to hear a frank report on what is happening and what may be expected.

As the conference reconvened today, Undersecretary of War Patterson declared there was "no doubt that our recent victories have failed to affect in any vital degree the strength of the enemy."

Lt. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, deputy chief of staff, said that while Germany has abandoned expectation of victory, she still is a formidable enemy.

Just how formidable was made clear by Maj. Gen. George V. Strong, Army intelligence chief, who told yesterday's session that the German army and air force are stronger now than when Poland was attacked four years ago, and that Germany's employment in war industries has risen in the same period from 23,000,000 to 35,000,000.

Strong rejected any talk of an early German collapse, and presented a similar report on Japan.

THAT BIG GRIN on the face of Sgt. Alfred H. Barstede, 22, St. Louis, Mo., was prompted by a package he and his buddies received shortly after they landed on Guadalcanal in the Solomons. He's holding two of the items found in the box—a tennis ball and a golf ball. The sergeant explained that the sports equipment had been requested while they were at a quiet post, but it did not reach them until they had gone into action. This is a U. S. Marine Corps photo.

SEVEN DIED. Prospect Heads District; Bucyrus Tenth.

Although Marion has dropped from among the leaders in the northwestern Ohio WAVE enlistment contest, two other Marion area communities are among the top 10, Lt. H. E. Milliken, in charge of the Toledo naval recruiting station, informed Chief John J. Dugan of the Marion substation today.

In the lead among over 100 northwestern Ohio communities is Prospect. Chief Dugan said he was unable to say exactly how many enlistments from Prospect have been reported to the Toledo station. He explained that the contest is being conducted on a basis of population. Bucyrus stands fourth in the contest at present.

The community in the area which obtains the most enlistments on a basis of population by Nov. Oct. 27, will receive a permanent honor rol lof women in the service. The award will be presented to the mayor of the winning community in ceremonies on Armistice Day, Nov. 11.

Chief Dugan said that although Marion has dropped from among the top 10 communities in the district according to the latest report from contest headquarters, its position will undoubtedly be improved by a group of enlistments recently forwarded to the Toledo office.

instead a graduated scale of increases based on the elimination of substandards, but leaders of the 15 non-operating unions have taken their case to the President. The two cases cover virtually all the nation's railroad employes.

Groups Covered

The operating groups for which four cents was recommended are the engineers, conductors, firemen and yardmen.

The majority found that since January, 1941, the train and engine and yard service employes, as a group, "have received an increase of approximately 10.5 per cent on the basis of average straight-time hourly earnings, as of that date, of 89.9 cents. Hence, in order to give effect to the full 15 per cent increase of the little steel formula, they are entitled to a further increase of 4½ per cent of the base rate, which increase amounts to 4 cents an hour."

The board included Walter P. Stacy, chief justice of the supreme court of North Carolina; I. L. Sharfman, professor of economics at the University of Michigan, and Frank M. Swacker, New York attorney.

The minority member, Swacker, said: "I believe the majority place too narrow a construction on Director Vinson's opinion. * * * I believe also our board has failed fully to discharge its functions in its failure to make in its conclusions specific findings of fact as to the extent of the gross inequities to which these employes are subject."

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 28—Thomas C. Cashen, international president of the Switchmen's Union of North America, said today the railroad emergency board's recommendation of a wage increase of four cents hourly for operating employes "is an insult."

"It is my opinion the employes will not accept the recommendation," he added.

Another Newsprint Cut Is Effective October 1

By The Associated Press

war production board (WPB) today ordered a further cut in consumption of newsprint by newspapers during the fourth quarter of the year.

Donald M. Nelson, WPB chairman, predicted the new reduction in a recent letter to the congressional committee investigating the newsprint situation.

H. M. Bitner, director of WPB's printing and publishing division, said the reductions in permissible total usage would become effective Oct. 1. Required reductions will be figured on a sliding scale in combination with previously ordered slashes. Smaller users will not be so drastically curtailed as publishers using 500 tons or more a quarter, who will be required to cut a full ten per cent from the base total calculated on 103 per cent of net paid circulation.

The new order again exempts users of less than 25 tons a quarter.

Sale of War Plants To Local Interests Favored

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 — Local business should get the first post-war call for buying the government's vast war plants and converting them to the private manufacture of peace-time goods, Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, told the house small business committee yesterday.

The Reconstruction Finance Corp. (RFC) which he heads will be ready to finance war plant sales to private industry, he said.

"I don't think the government should manufacture things for civilian requirements," Jones said. "But these plants should not be sacrificed or junked. By and large they can be used for manufacturing things necessary to our peacetime economy."

"Local people should have the first call," he continued. "I don't think we should permit the war to further concentrate our economy into big units. We're better off with small units."

Another 75 Millions in Publisher's Lap

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 28—A fortune estimated at from 70 to 75 million dollars came into the possession of Marshall Field III today, his 50th birthday. He is rated one of the world's wealthiest men.

The amount, representing the residue of the estate of his grandfather, Marshall Field I, Chicago's merchant prince, was estimated by Carl J. Weltzel, comptroller of the Marshall Field estate, on the basis of current appraisal figures.

Field, the founder and publisher of the Chicago Sun, is the sole beneficiary of his grandfather's residuary estate. He has received previous allotments, estimated at $93,000,000, under terms of the will of the first Field, who died in 1906.

Synthetic Tires Fail To Stand Patrol Tests

By The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS, Oind., Sept. 28—The state department of public safety, experimenting with synthetic tires on state police automobiles since last July, has found approximately one-third of the tires unusable after 1,500 miles, Director Don F. Stiver disclosed today.

The maximum mileage given by any of the tires has been 9,000 miles, Stivers said in a statement. Of 158 tires used in the test, one had to be returned to the factory after 50 miles when a blister developed.

The chief weakness of synthetic tires, Stiver explained, was the formation of blisters, produced by friction-heat generated at only slight excesses of speed.

V.F.W. Commander Proposes Program for Veterans' Aid

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—Robert T. Merrill, commander in chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, today proposed a 10-point veteran welfare program as a substitute for President Roosevelt's plan, which, Merrill said, "is not sufficiently comprehensive."

In a speech prepared for the joint opening session of the VFW's 44th national encampment, Merrill said:

"We believe the President's six-point program is not sufficiently comprehensive if this nation hopes to solve the tremendous veteran welfare problems we will have on our hands when the 11 million men serving in our armed forces are demobilized."

Merrill proposed:

1. Continuation of pay for six months for all honorably discharged members of the armed forces.

2. Federal educational aid for honorably discharged veterans whose education was interrupted.

3. Government care for al honorably discharged veterans of all wars who had 90 days service or were discharged for disability.

4. Veteran pension and compensation based on reasonable cost-of-living index.

5. Veteran preference in employment on federal, state, county and municipal jobs.

6. At least 10 per cent of all employes on federal government contract supply and construction work be honorably discharged veterans.

7. Pension rights to all widows and orphans of all honorably discharged veterans of all wars who had 90 days service, regardless of service-connected disabilities.

8. Pension rights to honorably discharged veterans of all wars who served 90 days and who are unemployable, unable to obtain mployment, or 10 per cent or more disbled, regardless of service-connected disabilities.

9. Increased allowance of 20 per cent in pensions and compensation and five per cent additional above standard ratings in civil service job preference for veterans who served in combat in all pars.

10. Continuation of veterans administration as an independent federal agency with exclusive jurisdiction over veteran rehabilitation, vocational training, medical treatment, hospitalization, pensions and other veteran matters and continuation of federal veterans employment service.

Since the last war the range of American anti-aircraft artillery has been increased 100 per cent, individual firepower 250 per cent, size of bombs 300 per cent and speed of tanks 700 per cent.

Buy Bomber Now, Bathroom Later, Via Bond Route

Of the three basic needs—food, clothing, shelter—only one, shelter, can be accumulated for the future, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau in calling attention to the advisability of buying war bonds now and earmarking them for a new home or modernizing of an existing home after victory.

Bonds that buy bombers now can be used for the purchase of a new bathroom later, the bureau points out. Not only bathrooms but new kitchen sinks, new hot water or steam heating plants, water heaters, water softeners, stokers, and automatic heating controls are among the many home improvements which a program of bond buying today will make possible later.

To plan now for enjoyment tomorrow, via the war bond purchase route, is patriotic and wise, the bureau suggests. Indeed, personal post-war planning can take very definite shape today even to the point of consulting with plumbing and heating contractors.

The homeowner who has his plans for post-war plumbing and heating improvements all made when victory comes will be in a position quickly to translate ideas into realities. As for the type of equipment after the war, the bureau points out that it is now quite well established that post-war plumbing and heating equipment will not differ greatly from the best that was available before the war. There is no need, therefore, to delay personal post-war planning waiting for miracle equipment.

As it turned out he was fast, but lacked control, and gave up 10 hits while winning 6-3 with the help of home runs by Danny Litwhiler and Ray Sanders. However, Manager Billy Southworth called the test a success.

The New York Yankees beat the Cleveland Indians 5-2.

The Chicago White Sox were outhit in both games of a twilight-night doubleheader but whipped the Washington Senators twice by identical scores of 2-1 with Ralph Hodgin driving in the winning run in each case. The Sox made only three hits off Buck Newsom and Milo Candini in the second game.

The Philadelphia Athletics lost their 100th game of the year while dividing a doubleheader with the St. Louis Browns, winning the first game 9-4 and then dropping the second 7-6. In the latter contest all the A's six tallies came in the third inning and four of them on a grand slam homer by Frank Skaff.

Ace Adams broke the 1908 record of Ed Walsh by appearing in his 67th game of the season for the New York Giants, but the Chicago Cubs won 10-9 on Bill Nicholson's 28th home run in the 13th inning.

Mansfield Grid Officials Accuse Harding of Scouting Tygers Game at Galion

By CHARLES ELLIOTT

Accusations of Mansfield High school football officials and players that a spy from the Tygers was scouted by Marion Harding at practice in the Galion High stadium recently unfounded and do not bear a semblance of the truth, according to local athletic authorities.

Mansfield coaches and players have openly charged that representatives of Harding were present at the practice engagement and as a result of the findings, the Presidents were able to outplay and defeat the Tygers 6 to 0.

Coaches Vic Dorris and Joe Petro, after it leaked out that not a single "Scout Spy" was the Galion-Mansfield tune-up Clash.

Information to the effect that Harding had sent scouts to the practice could be said to have been relayed to Mansfield players from an undetermined source following the game here.

If anyone from here did relay such information on to Mansfield players, he probably merely told the truth—that the President coaching staff had received tips on the strength of the Tygers through Jim Lymper, coach of the Galion Grangemen. Dorris makes no bones about the fact that he exchanged views on the respective merits of the Tygers and the Grangemen with Lymper at the annual N. C. O. meeting held in Galion a few days prior to the Mansfield-Marion set-to.

They Talked Shop

As all good coaches do when they meet, Dorris and Lymper talked shop. The Galion mentor undoubtedly somewhere along the line slipped in something about what to watch for from the Mansfielders. Dorris in turn gave Lymper some tips on some other squads, whom the Galions were scheduled to face this season. Certainly there is nothing wrong with such conversation.

Upon hearing of the Mansfield allegation, Dorris promptly said, "Coach Snyder of Mansfield probably was given some information about Harding from Lymper, too."

The bare recital of the story as related to Mansfield players probably was so distorted that by the time it reached the visiting coaching staff, it was to the effect the Prexies actually had scouts at the practice tilt.

Coach Snyder, commenting on the scouting charge, said, according to Mansfield newspaper report: "It's too bad, I thought we had the makings of a fine rivalry with Marion."

According to this statement, the Mansfield tutor must have believed the accusation. However, he has not as yet made any formal protest to Harding High school.

Coach Dorris, on the other hand, sent a letter last week to Snyder explaining the true situation in an effort to smooth out the differences between the two high schools. If these differences are not remedied shortly, all relations between the two schools will be undermined with suspicion and doubt, local scholastic authorities have surmised.

Ashland footballers, upon hearing the tension between the two large high schools, naturally recalled the unprecedented situation pertaining to illegal scouting last season in which Harding and the Hilltoppers were the participants. However, on that occasion it was Marion that was tossing the protests with Ashland on the receiving end.

A majority of Marion fans and officials found out in time that they were falsely accusing the Ashland school.

Then for the sake of scholastic sports in this section of the state, Mansfield authorities should give a little more consideration to their mud-slinging at Marion Harding until the truth has been learned.

Don Kay, Marion Harding's illustrious alumni of the class of 1943, launched his college football career with the Ohio State Buckeyes in their game with the Iowa Seahawks Saturday afternoon. Kay, because of an injured knee, was not used by Coach Paul Brown until the very last few seconds, when he broke into the lineup in a tackle position. It was so near the end of the game that local fans who witnessed the game were not sure whether Don took part in a play.

Kay's bad knee, the cells of which were injured in practice about two weeks ago, have kept him from going full speed in drills. However, unless in case of another hurt, Don may see his full of action with the Bucks.

The win of Bucyrus High over Upper Sandusky Friday night marked the first time since the 1940 season that the Redmen had broken into the victory column. The final score of the contest read 6 to 0, the Redmen's play. Coach Nick Wasylik still must be celebrating.

Marion St. Mary's parochials ought to be acquiring a pretty opinion of themselves as far as football playing goes. The Delaware Willis team, which was held to a scoreless tie by the fighting Irish a week ago Friday night, trounched a respected Mansfield Madison eleven 39 to 6 last week. It looks as though the local Irish are going to have one of their best seasons.

The other Mansfield team, the Tygers, blanked Elyria High's gridders, 13 to 0, at Elyria Friday night. Bill Dent, quarterback, and Rowland Schmidt, halfback, tallied the Tygers' two touchdowns.

Findlay High, whom Harding will tackle at Findlay Oct. 22, won their first game of the season against Bowling Green Friday night, 14 to 0. Lima South's Warriors, after tying Middletown 13 to 13 in the 1943 opener, was trampled 25 to 7 by Fostoria Friday night.

MARION SOFTBALL TEAM WINS 2 AT GREEN CAMP

Locals To End Season Sunday in Return Double-Header.

Lords softball team will close its 1943 season next Sunday with a double-header with Green Camp at Lincoln park. The first game has been called for 2:45 p. m., Manager Bob Putman announced.

The Marion team copped both ends of a double bill with the Green Camp team at Green Camp, winning the first by a score of 15-3 and the nightcap, 20-0, on the one-hit flinging of Harold Millisor.

In winning the first game Coxie Weiss limited the Campers to four hits, struck out 10 and walked two. Carr and Oehler, who shared the Green Camp mound duties in the first game, gave up 12 hits between them, walked two and fanned only one Marion batter. Weiss and Bill Freshour led the Marion team's attack with three hits apiece.

In the second game Millisor fanned seven opposing batsmen and walked two. Hammon was the only Green Camp player credited with a hit.

HUTCHINGS TRIES FOR VICTORY TODAY

By The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 28—Ponderous Johnny Hutchings is due to assume the task tonight of trying to pitch the Indianapolis Indians back on even terms in the American Association final playoff series with the Columbus Red Birds.

But Big Johnny might as well stay home tonight if his mates don't give him any better support than they gave George Diehl, Bob Logan and Woody Rich last night.

The scoreboard showed Columbus 9 and Indianapolis 3 at the end of the opening encounter of the three-of-five game series.

The Tribe committed four errors, three by young Charley Gleek, and eight of Columbus' nine runs were unearned.

Ted Wilks, Columbus' starting pitcher, didn't allow a hit until the fifth.

WILDCATS COUNTING ON PASSES TO GAIN IN MICHIGAN GAME

Graham To Be Called on for Plenty of Heaves Saturday.

By The Associated Press

EVANSTON, Ill., Sept. 28—Sporting an overall balance of [illegible] Michigan [illegible] Saturday when [illegible] to Graham [illegible] attack [illegible] appear to be Northwestern's only hope of giving players in the important Western Conference engagement.

Unless Coach Lynn Waldorf can develop a running game around freshman Vic Schwall and Minnesota's Herman Pinkey, Graham undoubtedly will be required to throw passes until he is weary.

In six first team starts this season, Michigan has permitted opposing passers to complete only 15 of their 47 throws and has intercepted seven of them.

Elroy Hirsch, Michigan halfback, lands another apple to the game "Crazy Legs" will be seeking his first touchdown in Big Ten competition, for although he was one of the midwest's leading ground gainers at Wisconsin last year, he failed to cross the goal line in two conference games.

Northwestern lost three men for the Michigan game—first string quarterback Lynn McNutt, who suffered a shoulder separation and an injured ankle against Indiana; first string center Len Golan, who also injured a shoulder; and reserve freshman center, Charley Tourek, who was called to active duty by the Navy. A shoulder injury also has shelved sophomore Bob Nussbaumer, Michigan, halfback who has averaged seven yards per ball-carrying attempt.

At other midwestern grid camps—Sid Fisher, former Colorado Aggie guard, has been named Wisconsin captain for its game with Iowa. A deep leg bruise may keep halfback Paul Copoulos of Marquette out of the Hilltoppers' engagement at Camp Grant Sunday.

Coach Frank Leahy stressed pass defense at Notre Dame in anticipation of Georgia Tech's fine aerial attack, and Ray Eliot of Illinois sought tackle replacements as he groomed his youngsters for Purdue, a team with six former Illini in its starting lineup. Lieut. Don Faurot, bossman of the Iowa Seahawks, announced that he would not use officers in any of the team's next three games—with Iowa State, Iowa and Missouri.

At Great Lakes, Ray Polczynski, former Marquette freshman, may be a starter against Pittsburgh because of his splendid last quarter work against Iowa. He gained 24 yards in five plays and completed seven of 13 passes for 101 yards. Halfback Dean Sensanbaugher, Ohio State's freshman sensation who suffered hand and knee injuries in the Seahawks game, was expected to be ready for Missouri Saturday.

Kenton Football Star Declared Ineligible

Special to The Star

KENTON, O., Sept. 28—Omer Tolson, star on the Kenton High school football team, today was declared ineligible to play on the Wildcat athletic teams of 1943-44 and with him went Coach Arthur W. Mehaffey's hopes for a better-than-average season.

According to a ruling of the Ohio High School Athletic association, Tolson became ineligible because he followed Coach Mehaffey from Tiffin Junior Order to Kenton. He is a senior at Kenton High school this year and last season starred for the Tiffin club.

Last week, without Tolson, Kenton lost to St. Marys Memorial High school, 24 to 0. On Friday evening, Oct. 1, the Wildcats will meet the strong Van Wert Cougars in their first home game of the season.

New High School Grid Teams Forge Ahead in Young Season

By FRITZ HOWELL
AP Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 27—New [illegible] appeared in the [illegible] today as results of the first two weeks of the campaign involving more than 15,000 players were surveyed.

Toledo Libby, Dayton Oakwood, Defiance Dover and Xenia O. S. & S. O. Home, all undefeated and untied a year ago, have been treated this infant season. Libby, Oak[illegible] and Xenia failed to get by their opening games, while Defiance succumbed to Van Wert, 33 to 0, and Dover dropped a 12-7 decision to Akron Garfield in last week-end's frays.

Massillon's once-mighty Tigers, jolted 35-0 by Canton McKinley in last season's finale to end a 52-game victory streak, have started a new two-game stretch but no one expects the Tigers to go through this year without a setback.

In place of the 40-0 scores which were the usual things for the Tigers of old, the Massillons have eked out a 15-0 win over Canton Lincoln and a 13-6 verdict over Akron West. Canton McKinley in the meantime has piled up 100 points in two contests, 54-12 over Canton Timken and 46-0 over Akron South.

Middletown, held to a 13-13 tie by Lima South in the opener, broke loose for a 47-0 conquest over Columbus Central last week with Homer (Alky) Sorrell scoring six touchdowns for one of the week-end's top individual performances.

Columbus North, wrecked 25-7 by Newark's Wildcats, drew a bit of comment from Mike Hagan, North coach and former [illegible] the Ohio High School [illegible] Cuyahoga [illegible] game. North fan said:

"Well, Mike, it looks like you got a pretty tough one this time."

Hagely answered:

"Yeh, it's so tough our [illegible] backs can't get through it!"

Another gem popped up as Westerville beat Worthington 7 to 0.

Referee Paul Walker stepped to the Worthington dressing room after the fray, and one of the Worthington players asked:

"What's our biggest weakness, Mr. Walker?"

Walker, never one to [illegible] words or sympathy, replied: "Scoring."

At Port Clinton the home team poured a 44 to 0 defeat on Conneaut, eluding the fans so much they bought $63,000 in war bonds between the halves. Marion Harding, featuring its new "T" formation shift, beat Columbus West 20 to 0, while Coshocton, with Bob Gano scoring five touchdowns and passing for another, handed Mt. Vernon a 53-0 defeat—the worst the Yellow Jackets have suffered in 22 years.

GENUINE Alpagora

THE COAT WITH THE DOUBLE-DENSE FABRIC*

You can wear an Alpagora Coat as a "knock-about" coat for everyday use, and you can also wear it as a "good" coat for dress-up occasions. For Alpagora offers that rare combination of rich, luxurious appearance and long wear. This apparent magic is due to its special Double-Dense fabric. Woven with twice as many wool fibres on its surface as the average fabric, it is at once deep, soft to the touch—and stubbornly resistant to punishment. Come in, slip one on!

Cleveland Learns Yankees Really Do It with Mirrors

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—Cleveland's Indians have reason to believe the New York Yankees do it with mirrors. The evidence was available yesterday as the third place Tribesmen absorbed a 5 to 2 defeat—their ninth in 10 games in Yankee Stadium this season.

Umpire Bill Summers interrupted the festivities at one point and marched to the center field bleachers to aid the stadium police in locating a customer who was using a mirror to flash sun into the eyes of the Cleveland batters.

Hank Borowy also did his share to silence the Indian bats. He allowed only five hits in notching his 14th triumph and his seventh in succession. Gene Woodling, the Akron, O., rookie up from Wilkes-Barre, contributed the only long blow when he clouted a home run into the right field pavilion in the sixth. It was the 20-year-old outfielder's third extra base hit off Yankee pitching in the last two days.

Allie Reynolds and Joe Heving limited the pennant winners to six safeties but Allie also gave up six walks, hit a batsman and made a wild pitch. A walk to Bill Johnson and singles by Bud Metheny and Charlie Keller accounted for the Yanks' first tally in the opening inning and they added another in the second on a circuit smash by Nick Etten.

The Yanks loaded the sacks on two walks and a hit batter in the fifth and Etten broke his bat on one of Reynolds' fast balls and dropped a double over Mickey Rocco's head to score all three runners.

The Indians collected their other run in the fifth when Manager Lou Budreau singled after Buddy Rosar and Reynolds had drawn passes.

Mel Harder, the only Indian hurler to win a game in Yankee Stadium this year, goes to the mound today in the series finale. Marvin Breuer, who has been idle most of the season with a lame arm, makes his first start for the Yanks.

RECOVERS BROTHER
By The Associated Press

STAUNTON, Va.—It all happened because Pvt. Robert Smith played a hunch. Smith, a patient at the Woodrow Wilson General hospital in Ward C-4, came here from Iceland July 24. He read in a post publication that there was a James Smith, who arrived from North Africa, in Ward C-10. Robert called Ward C-10. The James Smith turned out to be Robert's brother, believed by his family to have been killed in action in Africa.

Most Leaders, However, Attract Little Attention in Today's Trading.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—Rails led a modest and selective recovery shift in today's stock market.

Credit for the specialized comeback—many leaders continued indifferent—was given mainly to technical factors and the belief the recent downturn had discounted some tax doubts and confused thinking regarding international developments in which talk of axis peace feelers was prominent. The list, on average, had lost most of its upswing of weeks before last.

Irregular trends continued at the start but sufficient bids then appeared to put favorites up fractions to a point near the fourth hour without touching off any real speed.

Better performers included New York Central, Southern Railway, Alleghany Preferreds, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Western Union, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Boeing, United Corp. (at a new 1943 top), Colorado & Southern common and preferreds and Du Pont. Among laggards were Anaconda, United Aircraft, Union Carbide, American Can, General Electric, Goodrich and Westinghouse.

Carriers had the benefit of another sizable batch of income reports for August and eight months which revealed that, while a number of roads felt the impact of excess profits taxes in the final period, net per share in the majority of cases was relatively encouraging.

MAJOR. Major Barbara Stimson (above) of New York, cousin of Secretary Henry Stimson, is working as an orthopedic specialist in a large military hospital in Britain. She joined the RAMC in 1942.

ALL GRAIN FUTURES ADVANCE SHARPLY

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 28—All grain futures, led by the bread cereals, advanced sharply today as suspension of trading in wheat futures on the Winnipeg exchange brought into the pits a flurry of buying activity by outside and local interests.

Reported action of the house agricultural committee in approving a 100 per cent parity price as a floor for basic crops stimulated a new buying force just before the close that carried wheat prices to new high levels since July. Prices had reacted moderately from the sharp opening advance after the urgent demand of traders evening up spreads with the Winnipeg market appeared to have been satisfied in mid-session.

COUNCIL

users consuming 40 kilowatt hours of electricity monthly. It also will benefit large users of domestic energy because it lets them start using electricity at the bottom rate of 1½ cents per kilowatt hour for all above 200 kilowatt hours per month whereas the existing schedule uses the bottom rate only for electricity in excess of 300 kilowatt hours per month. The minimum monthly bill for domestic users is increased from 75 cents to $1, but officials said this will affect only about 25 persons.

Commercial lighting and power rates also are reduced from a top of 5 cents to a new top of 4½ cents, the remainder of both schedules being unchanged. In the case of commercial lighting customers, this means a reduction of $2.50 a month for all using 500 KWH per month or more. For commercial power users, the new rate means a savings of $1.50 a month for those using 300 KWH or more monthly.

Schools, hospitals and public buildings will get savings from a new provision calling for single meters for such buildings in the place of existing multiple meters.

Replaces 1933 Contract.

The new rates replace old ones passed by council in 1933. The old rates expired last July, but have been in effect in the interim. When the rates were passed in 1933, the domestic rate started at a 7-cent top. The company voluntarily reduced that to 6 cents in 1937, to 5½ cents in 1939 and to 5 cents in 1940.

The civilian defense equipment pooling resolution adopted by council gives Fire Chief T. J. McFarland authority to send Marion's fire-fighting equipment to other cities if such a move is requested by the new state fire coordinator named by the governor. It also puts Marion in position to ask for outside help from other cities, by way of a request to the state coordinator. In answer to a query whether this might mean sending Marion equipment to Columbus, Cleveland or Cincinnati in cases of disasters, officials answered, "No." In the event of a fire emergency in Columbus, Delaware equipment probably would be moved to Columbus, Marion equipment might be moved to Delaware to serve in its place, and a unit might be brought into Marion from Bucyrus to help serve here during the emergency. Thus, the scene of the emergency would be reached by a series of short-distance shifts of equipment rather than by pulling equipment in from long distances, it was explained. Councilmen were told that Fire Chief McFarland heartily favors the plan.

Council made additional appropriations to help finance city department activities, the biggest item being $10,000 for payroll in the garbage department.

Petitions Received.

Petitions received by council included requests for:

Storm sewer in Davids street between Buckeye and Woodrow; signed by 21 persons.

Water line and sanitary sewer in Nye street and from Nye to Center on Curve street, signed by 29 persons; spokesmen said health officials recently had "tagged" wells in that area and prompt action is necessary, resulting in referring this to the proper committees with a request for a report at the next meeting.

Street light on South Greenwood street between Mt. Vernon and Mandana. Councilman Harry Wilhelm said "It's blacker in there than a stack of black cats."

Council also heard a letter regarding a previously reported sewer complaint on Cherry street, and instructed the city solicitor to answer it by expressing the city's belief that the city sewers in the area were functioning properly.

A raised sidewalk at 144 Latourette street, rough pavement on Latourette, York, Henry and Darius streets, and a sidewalk hole at Silver and Leader were reported in need of attention. A complaint was made that city buses park in the line of traffic at the Marion Steam Shovel Co. instead of in bus zones reserved for them, causing long lines of traffic to back up on Center street.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

I SAW the flash of alarm in Dicky's eyes, and my father's tightened lips, and knew that they shared my own terrified realization of what Harry Underwood meant.

My memory went back to the first days following Morton's disappearance, when he had voiced his determination to go in search of her down into the underworld. For there, as a member of the secret service, he had once successfully masqueraded until a final brilliant coup had cleared out a particularly vicious nest of conspirators against the government, and he, supposedly killed by a stray bullet, had vanished from the den of his criminal comrades, and resumed his rightful place in his own world and Lillian's life.

Some Had Escaped

But we all knew that one or two cobras had escaped from that nest,—escaped with the knowledge gained at the time of Harry's supposed death, that, in their vocabulary, he had "ratted" and "doublecrossed" them, causing the capture and death of their leaders and most of their comrades. They were small cobras, minor in importance, and, of course, the chances were against their again being in the city from which they had fled when the search for the scattered fugitives of the nest had followed the scotching of the principal reptiles.

But we also knew that if one of those men should happen to be in New York, and should happen to see Harry, when, assuming his old disguise, he should go down into the underworld, hunting for some clue to his step-daughter's disappearance, our old friend's life would not be worth the traditional farthing.

Action Only Postponed

It was that dread which had haunted Lillian, and it was her terror and my father's dictum that such action on Harry's part was not needed, which at that time apparently had changed his decision. But we all realized now from the expression on the face of our friend that "changed" was not the word. It should have been "postponed."

He had risen to his feet, and was moving toward the door.

"I must get hold of Halloran," he said, "and tell him to meet me at the house. It isn't safe to telephone him from here, I take it."

"No, it isn't," my father said, and his voice was almost a croak. I saw that in the face of this sudden decision his usual faculty of snap decision was almost paralyzed, and that he was as bewildered and saddened as Dicky and I.

"I thought not," Harry commented, "so I'll just hurry along. I want to get hold of him as soon as possible. Fortunately I never threw away any of my old pharaphernalia. Styles in clothes haven't changed so much, and I never was one of the nattier gangsters. Hayseed in my hair—rough stuff—that was my metier for most of the time, although once in a while I took a flyer at the smoother stuff."

He was talking against time, hoping to get away before any protests could be raised. We could see that, and all three of us found our voices at once.

"Wait Harry!" my father commanded. "Let us talk this over first."

"I'm going with you, old man," Dicky said, and when he heard my gasp of dismay, he threw me a reassuring: "Not all the way, sweetheart; just to his house."

I got my breath back just in time to voice the only objection that stopped Harry in his tracks.

"Harry!" I called, conscious that my voice was shaking. "You can't go until Lillian comes. She will be here—"

He whirled, cutting short my appeal.

"Lillian!" he exclaimed. "What do you mean? I thought she was safe at the farm."

Spencer Keeps Calm

"So she is, now," my father said calmly. "But I am sending for her to come up here tomorrow."

"Why?" His tone lacked its usual deference. The monosyllable seemed torn out of him.

"Because"—my father's words were measured—"it is my belief things are progressing so rapidly that Lillian's presence here is desirable, if not, indeed, essential. I also have sent for Carolyn, in the belief that we may get some further information from her."

Harry took time off to nod an assent to that.

"I agree with that opinion," he said. "But, as for Lillian, I cannot wait for her. You must tell her whatever you think best. Lady Fair, give her my fondest love, and tell her I had to do this. And now I must go."

The Stars Say—

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, Sept. 29

EVENTS of a sudden and quite unpredictable or unprecedented nature may be anticipated on this day, which may be filled with breath-taking surprise, dramatic development and eventually some unforeseen benefits and enjoyments. There may be much to overcome before attaining ultimate satisfaction. Principle, integrity and fine ideals should open excellent opportunities for attaining worthy ambitions. Seek friendly advice.

Those whose birthday it is may hope for a sudden and unlooked for spurt to the affairs, with prospect of dramatic and thrilling experiences or surprising adventures on the way to ultimate progress and personal achievement possibly with romance and renown thrown in for good measure. However, there may be treachery, schemes and illicit intrigues menacing the way, and calling for a determined adherence to high principle, integrity and good common sense, lest delusion and snares inveigle into dangerous and disintegrating alliances or sudden downfall. Seek proper associates, adhere to codes and thrillingly gratifying results may develop.

A child born on this day may have much creative ability, originality and inventive genius, with aspirations and fine ideals, but may be subject to erratic urges or swayed by illusions, suspicion and strange abberations.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Army Health

BRIGADIER General Simmons, of the Surgeon-General's office, has just published a summary of the health of the army in World War II and has given comparative statistics of World War I. The report is of great interest to me, especially where it concerns comparative figures between 1917-1918 and 1941-1942, because of one of these I can say, "All of this I saw, and part of it I was."

Of the diseases that can be prevented by vaccination or inoculation, the army in the present war has been practically free. It is an example for civilian populations to emulate. I mention this because I get a flood of criticisms whenever I publish an article advocating smallpox, typhoid fever and dipatheria vaccination.

The smallpox record shows that in the Civil War, with two and a half million men under arms, the number of cases of smallpox was nearly 19,000—a rate of 7.97 per 1,000. Either the medical department was not strict enough, or else there were more vociferous howlers against vaccination and more suckers to believe them then.

In the Spanish-American war, with half a million men under arms, there were 825 cases—a rate of 1.65 per 1,000. In World war I, with four million men under arms, there were 853 cases—a rate of 0.25 per 1,000. In World war II, according to General Simmons, since 1940 there have been occasional cases—"giving a rate too small to record graphically."

Measles was one of our scourges in 1917-1918. There were about 100,000 cases in the whole army. In 1917 the rate was almost 2'0 per 1,000. There has been one fairly severe epidemic in 1941, but not of such proportions—the rate being about 50 per 1,000. I cannot account for this, save on the basis of the mysterious variations in virulence which infectious diseases go through. At any rate, thank heaven it is so, because we had a frightful death rate from measles in 1917.

Mumps is one of the scourges of armies, not because it is dangerous in itself, but because of the long period of convalescence—six weeks—the army requires. The army of World war II has also had less mumps. It may be that the greater movement of population from 1920 to 1940 accounts for the decrease. Our cases of measles and mumps, 1917-1918, were mostly in draftees from rural districts, few of whom had ever been far enough from home to contact contagious diseases. Now with automobile traffic so much increased, as well as increase in rural schooling, going to the University, etc., enough contacts are made to insure pretty general immunity.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Interested:—Is there such a thing as a "touch" of tuberculosis? If so, will you please define it?

Answer: Certainly. Tuberculosis is a disease which starts with a very small destruction of tissue and which if unchecked, spreads to neighboring tissue. The first area of destruction could certainly be called a "touch." It is certainly better to say that than to hide behind the comforting phrase "threatened with tuberculosis."
